

When the device connected to HS01 exceeds the current output capability, an external auxiliary power supply can be used. Please note that it's recommended to use power supplies isolated from the earth ground like a modern phone charger. Linear power supplies and other earthed power supplies are not recommended.